- 1969 Wurlitzer closed the factory in October and production ended.
- 1970 Martin was sold to Leblanc of Kenosha & the new Committee trumpet is later designed by Larry Ramirez.
- 1972 Leblanc signed a deal with Yamaha to produce all of their student instruments (about 90% of sales). The professional models continued to be made in Elkhorn (Holton) or Kenosha.

2004 Martin was bought by Steinway and all production ended in Kenosha.

2008 All Martin instrument production ended (Larry Ramirez in 2012 interview for NAMM).

Instruments marked "Martin Busine" are not related to the Martin Company. Some saxophones are reported as being Dolnet or Grassi stencils and could be purchased through The Unity Catalog which later became LaBelle's. These would date to the 1960s and 1970s. One cornet found was marked "Italy" and a trumpet was marked "Czechoslovakia".
